

Valeryia Losikava (Fabifa)

BIO

Valeryia Losikava (b. 1987), known as Fabifa, is a Berlin-based artist creating large-scale installations and series of hard edge figurative works using primarily tape. Her work explores themes of personal freedom, identity and self-expression.

Born and raised in Minsk, Belarus, she studied architecture and security engineering, working as a security engineer before moving to Berlin in 2015 - a city she chose specifically to pursue art. The experience of living between two worlds, between constraint and freedom, became the foundation of her entire practice.

Her works emerge from the intersection of three layers: the internal - the psychological state she is exploring at a given moment; the external - a theme or world she is obsessed with (deep-sea creatures, night megacities, cyberpunk, the human body); and the colour period she is in. Her figures are muses who are mostly real people who inspire her.

Her artworks have been presented at major Berlin institutions and events, including Urban Nation Museum as part of Berlin Art Week, the Berlin TV Tower (Fernsehturm), and Gallery Weekend Berlin, with further exhibitions across Germany, France, Spain, Denmark, and Mexico. She has held solo exhibitions at Pink Dot Gallery (Berlin, 2025) and Mora Mora Gallery (Cancun, 2023), and her work is held in private collections internationally.
